

FIRST FRIDAY at SOUTHERN TIER HEALTHLINK NY

“Butterflies and Birds: Think Spring!”

Photography by Randy Cummings

Friday, February 5th, 2010, 6-9pm

The Southern Tier HealthLink NY invites the community to visit its offices in the former Lackawanna Train Station for the First Friday Art Walk on February 5, from 6-9 p.m.

“Think Spring!” can hasten the passing of winter as you view this unique collection of butterfly and bird images by local photographer Randy Cummings. Enjoy enchanting views of monarchs and queens, pearly crescents, Baltimore checkerspots, great spangled fritillaries, and tiger swallowtails -- all captured in striking poses in enchanted settings. If you prefer the birds, treat yourself to close-ups of cardinals, bluebirds, herons, wood ducks, goldfinches, and more. Some of Randy’s favorites include bluebirds feeding, herons nesting and an osprey in flight with a fish dangling from a talon.

Randy is a frequent participant in Binghamton’s First Friday and Owego’s Third Friday Art Walks, and his work can be seen at local exhibits and regional art shows as well. In addition to wildlife, his interests include portraiture, celebrations, sports, and travel photography. Visit his gallery at www.bunnhillphoto.com.

Southern Tier HealthLink NY (STHL) is a non-profit organization that coordinates the local and regional efforts to improve health care delivery through the benefits of health care information technology exchange. STHL is proud to open its doors to the public for First Friday each month and invites you to stop by and visit its vintage train station home.
